

Lessons from Wakanda: Past, Present & Future of Black America

For all of the excitement Black Panther generated in the black community, it is far more than just another Marvel action movie. Full of themes about family, power, responsibility, community, heritage and more, Black Panther brings rich lessons from Wakanda to present day black America. Share, learn and discuss as we explore key themes in the movie – honoring our past, embracing and questioning the present, and imagining the future we want to co-create together.

Wakanda - Black to the Future

Equipping our youth for the future is vital to ensuring the success of the next generation. This course for middle school youth, grades 5-8, will focus on themes of racism, isolationism, gender equality, loyalty, family and power shown in the blockbuster movie, Black Panther. Using their own words, language and experiences, the youth will explore how relevant these themes are in bringing awareness, insight and empowerment to black and brown marginalized youth, their families and communities - today and in the future.

Facilitators: Anita Mack & Johanna Wright

5-week series Saturdays Oct 20-Nov 17, 2018
10:00 – 11:30 am
Course is FREE, but registration is required
